Dear Faculty and Academic Affairs Staff Colleagues,

In collaboration with Academic Affairs, the Center for Student Success will be offering three advising workshops this semester:

- Igniting Connection for Collaborative Advising (In Person)
  - Wednesday, February 5th, 11 am - 12 pm, Social Sciences Building 326
  - Guest Speaker: Jamal Johnson (Associate Director, Mentoring, Retention, & Success Programs)
  - Description: Building strong rapport with students is a must for effective advising. Join us to self-reflect and discuss strategies to connect with students so that they feel comfortable reaching out for support.
- Advising Gen Z (In Person)
  - Friday, March 7th, 12:30 - 1:30 pm, Physics Building 117
  - Guest Speaker: Chanelle Lester (Assistant Dean, School of Science)
  - Description: Understanding our Gen Z students' interests, needs, and communication styles can play a huge role in strengthening our advising relationships with them. This session will explore some generalizations about Gen Z as well as potential strategies to help navigate our advising approaches.
- Advising Basics (Virtual)
  - Tuesday, March 11th, 12:30 - 1:30 pm, Zoom
  - Description: Geared towards our newest faculty/staff advisors or those who simply want a refresh, topics will include: understanding TCNJ's Undergraduate Advising policy and Advising Agreement, FERPA/confidentiality, how to review a PAWS Academic Requirements Report, understanding College Core requirements, and navigating campus resources. (Zoom info will be shared with those who RSVP.)

Please RSVP HERE. We hope to see you there!

Best wishes,
Mary Lehr-Furtado
